CLOPTON is a village and parish, on a small brook close to Burgh, 4 miles north from Bealings station, on the Ipswich and Lowestoft section of the Great Eastern railway, 5 north-west from Woodbridge and 7 north-east from Ipswich, in the South Eastern division of the county, Carlford hundred, Woodbridge petty sessional division, union and county court district, rural deanery of Carlford, archdeaconry of Suffolk and diocese of Norwich. The church of St. Mary is a building of stone and flint in the Early English style, consisting of chancel, nave and an embattled south-western tower, containing 6 bells, which have been restored and rehung: in 1883 the church was thoroughly restored and the chancel rebuilt at a cost of about £2,000; a carved oak pulpit was erected in 1887 at a cost of £60, given by the friends of the rector: in 1890 the church was reseated with open oak benches and a new organ erected: there are 200 sittings. The register dates from the year 1735. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £489, with 14 acres of glebe and residence, in the gift of Mrs. Frost, of Foulsham, Norfolk, and held since 1879 by the Rev. Samuel Hooke, Theol. Assoc. of King's College, London, and rural dean of Carlford. An iron mission church has been erected near the School room. The town estate consists of four tenements and 16 acres of land, let for £44 12s. yearly, which sum is applied to the repairs of the church and the relief of the poor: the "bell pightel," of 2a. or. 38p. left for the repairs of the church bells, is let for £5 7s. 6d. yearly. The land is all freehold. The principal landowners are Lord Bendlesham, Mrs. Round-Turner, Eustace Hepburn Barlow esq. of Hasketon, Mr. F. T. W. Catt and Richard Porter esq. The soil is good marl; subsoil, sand. In the parish are sand pits, in which large quantities of fossil remains have been found. The chief crops are wheat, barley and root crops. The area is 2,097 acres; rateable value, £1,733; the population in 1891 was 359.

COCKFIELD is an extensive and scattered parish and village, with a station on the Bury and Sudbury section of the Great Eastern railway, 7 miles south from Bury St. Edmunds and 70 from London, in the Southern division of the county, Melford petty sessional division, Cosford union, Babergh hundred, county court district of Bury St. Edmunds, rural deanery of Lavenham, archdeaconry of Sudbury and diocese of Ely. The church of St. Peter is an ancient building of flint, in the Decorated and Perpendicular styles, consisting of chancel, clerestoried nave, aisles, south porch and an embattled western tower containing 6 bells: in the church is a handsome monument to the Harvey family: the stained east window, erected in 1890, is a memorial to the Rev. Churchill Babington D.D. late rector, 1856-89: the church was restored in 1879 and affords 375 sittings. The registers date from the year 1561. The living is a rectory, net yearly value £510, including 39 acres of glebe, with residence, in the gift of St. John's College, Cambridge, and held since 1889 by the Rev. Edwin Hill M.A. and formerly fellow and tutor of that college. Here is a Congregational chapel with 250 sittings. There are several small charities. Some ancient earthworks on the south-west border of the parish, called the "Warbanks," are generally thought to be of Roman origin. The Misses Manning are owners of the manor. George Frederick Beaumont esq. F.S.A. of The Lawn, Coggeshall, Essex, is lord of the manor of Cockfield Hall and Earls Hall. The principal landowners are Mrs. Wolton, of Ixworth, Wm. Ramsey Hustler esq. Sir Henry Charles John Bunbury bart. of Barton Hall, Lord De Saumarez, of Shrubland Park, John T. Cousens esq. Mrs. Barnwell and Harry Ruffell and Thos.
